

VIRGINIA THE KEY TO THE SITUATION

MINERS MUST STOP WORK IN THAT STATE.

The Strike Depends On That—If the Workmen in the Mountain Commonwealth Leave the Coal Pits the Success of the Movement Seems Assured—Illinois Men Quit.

West Virginia remains the center of importance in the miners' strike. Some of the men have gone out in that state, and an effort is to be made by organizers to reach the others within the next day or two. Many mass-meetings have been held to consider the situation.

From official headquarters of the strike a report has been issued which declares all the outlook to be favorable.

It is alleged that Mr. De Armit's connection with the Carnegie bids on armor plate is so close that he will be unable to keep his agreement on the uniformity settlement, even if it should be effected, unless a higher price be paid for armor.

The governor of Indiana has appointed a commission to investigate the condition of the miners in that state and report as to the extent of their distress.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 19.—The strike situation in West Virginia is becoming serious, and by tonight it is expected that a big majority of the miners will have declared their intention to join the cause. About 4,000 miners are out now, while there are probably twice that number still at work.

Why special efforts are being made in this region to spread the strike it is easy to see. The mines are located so that they naturally ship coal to the markets usually supplied by the Pittsburgh and Ohio districts, and their arrangements are such that they have capacity only limited by the number of men they can secure to follow up the electrical machinery that runs night and day. Till Fairmont is idle there can be no coal famine in the west and at the lakes. Till Fairmont is idle there is little hope of success, for even if the Pittsburgh and Ohio operators were to pay the price demanded by the mine-workers they could not sell their product, got out at that price, against the product of the Fairmont mines, while the latter can produce coal at much lower figures. There has been the greatest activity on the railroads within the last twenty-four hours and the rush of coal from the mines to the market has practically suspended everything else. Long trains loaded and empty cars fill every siding on both the Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western railroads, and railroad men are working overtime all along both lines. The activity of the Baltimore & Ohio in the matter of shipments of coal beats all records. Saturday night passenger trains were held to permit the forwarding of coal trains, and hundreds of cars have been sent out from here or have passed from other points within the last twenty-four hours.

FROM NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS. Coke-Workers May Be Drawn Out —Position of Horace Chapman.

Columbus, O., July 19.—The first day of the third week of the miners strike was remarkably quiet in every state affected, according to the reports received at national headquarters. It is reported from Pittsburgh that an effort is to be made to bring out the coal and coke workers in the Connellsville district.

J. V. Barton, labor statistician of West Virginia, believes that there will eventually be a complete cessation in that state. This will shut off the coal supply at Pittsburgh and effect what the miners have been trying to accomplish for a week. The organizers will then invade the coke region, in order that the coal of that district may not take the place of West Virginia coal.

Reports received at headquarters say that the coke-workers have manifested a desire to aid the strikers. There are about 15,000 men employed in the Connellsville region, and the past has demonstrated the fact that they are all full of sympathy and easily persuaded. It has come to the ears of the miners that much of the coal mined in that district is not being coked, but is contributing to the supply at Pittsburgh.

Horace L. Chapman, the Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, is interesting himself in behalf of the striking miners, and announces that he will do whatever he can to bring about a peaceful settlement and send the men back into the mines.

Sovereign for a United Strike.
Wheeling, W. Va., July 19.—Grand Master Workman Sovereign has a scheme for a strike of all the organized labor in the country. The plan, however, while not fully understood here, is not looked upon seriously by employees and labor leaders generally. They do not believe it will amount to much. It is the consensus of opinion that to succeed a national strike must hold out inducements of a selfish character to each trade taking part, and must have six months or a year for organization and preparation.

Little Hope for Arbitration.
Columbus, O., July 19.—It is plain that the United Mine Workers, so far as they can be controlled by their officials, will oppose an scheme to settle the strike by arbitration. The officers of the national body are leaving all such schemes alone and they stand on the original demand for higher wages. Not that they are opposed to arbitration or the uniformity agreement, but they believe it is a matter for the operators to take up and settle among themselves. No violence has been resorted to by the strikers, and in consequence their cause is gaining friends every day in their opinion.

Vote to Quit Work.
Bloomington, Ill., July 19.—A meeting of seventy of the 300 miners of Bloomington Sunday voted to join in the general strike. To-day a mass meeting of the miners will be held to consider the action of Sunday afternoon and either endorse the decision or reject it. There is very little doubt that the meeting will confirm what was done Sunday, and it is almost certain that a sympathetic strike involving all the miners of Bloomington will be inaugurated.

JAPAN OUT FOR CONQUEST.

A Former Hawaiian Consul General Writes to Senator Hanna.
Colorado Springs, Colo., July 19.—H. P. Lillibridge, who was consul general from Hawaii to Japan during the reign of King Kalakaua, has written a letter to Senator Hanna in which he says:

"Please say to both McKinley and Sherman that I know whereof I speak when I tell you the designs of Japan on Hawaii are exactly as intimated in the editorials of the Japan Herald, notwithstanding all the denials Hoshi Tora Sami can make. "Ever since Japan captured the Lu Kiu islands in 1875 the bee of conquest has been buzzing in her head-gear. Her more recent success in Korea and China and her acquisition of Formosa, as well as the submissive, undignified, weak vis-a-vis which our government of political joblots presents to them and to Spain, furnish all the incentive and encouragement necessary to justify Japan's idea that Hawaii will be an easier conquest than any that have gone before, if she moves quickly."

WORK FOR THOUSANDS.

National Steel Manufacturers' Acceptance of Scale Reopens Mills.
Muncie, Ind., July 19.—The signing of the sheet mill wage scale by the National Steel Manufacturers' Association of Pittsburgh will result in the Midland Steel Works in this city resuming work Wednesday of this week, and in a week's time the big mill will have nearly a thousand men at work. President Bard of the Indiana iron works intimates that his mill, employing as many hands, will soon resume work, as they are ready to settle the wage matter with the men, since the scale with the steel manufacturers has been adjusted.

The green glass manufacturers adjusted the wages for next year with the men at Atlantic City yesterday, the old scale being accepted. This means that Ball Bros.' big fruit jar works, and the Port glass works, and a hundred others will resume work on time September 1.

RUSH FOR GOLD.

Intense Excitement at Seattle, Wash.—Leaving for the New El Dorado.
Seattle, Wash., July 19.—The reports of gold discoveries in Alaska have caused intense excitement here. Policemen are resigning from the force; every street car man that can raise a stake has given notice to his company. In fact, all classes of society are represented in the feverish rush to the north. Men neglect their business and congregate in groups on the streets in excited discussions. People are telegraphing their friends and relatives in the east to come and join them in the new El Dorado.

The steamers' officers are rushed with business and outfitting stores are taxed to their utmost capacity to supply the wants of those who are getting ready to make the trip. Merchants are fearful that their help will leave them and that they will be unable to fill their places.

Pays No Heed to Japan.

New York, July 19.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says: "The administration has practically determined to ignore the latest protest submitted by Japan in opposition to the annexation of Hawaii by the United States. Minister Buck is at Tokyo, and has been advised by the state department of the signing of the annexation treaty. It is understood he has been made aware of the suggestion of arbitration submitted to Japan by the Hawaiian authorities, and it is expected he will exercise the friendly offices of this government to secure the acceptance of the offer."

CONVENTIONS END; DELEGATES LEAVE

BAPTISTS HAVE A BUSY DAY AT CHATTANOOGA.

Epworth League Adjourns—Gratification Expressed That the Baptist Denomination in the United States Is United Through the Young People's Union—Farewell Rallies.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 19.—Early morning devotional services were held in all the churches of the city Sunday in connection with the convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America. The Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, the distinguished Baptist divine of Nashville, preached the convention sermon at the Auditorium in the afternoon to the 5,000 people. His subject was "The Ideal Christian Man."

The evening was given up to a dedication service of unusual interest, lasting from 8 to 10 o'clock, and was conducted by General Secretary E. E. Chivers, D. D., of Chicago.

Resolutions were adopted expressing grateful thanks that the debt of $468,000 of the American Foreign Baptist Mission Society has been raised, and expressing the gratification of all Baptists that the denomination in the United States was united through the Young People's Union.

Sunday night's services closed the regular convention proceedings, though several rallies are on the program for to-day, and a service will be held at Snodgrass Hill, in the national park, at which patriotic addresses and songs will be mingled with the religious exercises.

Epworth League Convention Closed.
Toronto, Ont., July 19.—Five monster farewell rallies Sunday night closed the greatest convention the Epworth League has ever had. At Massey's Music Hall the greatest meeting was held, the building being crowded to its fullest capacity by over 5,000 persons. Other meetings were held at the Metropolitan Church, at Cook's Church, at the Pavilion and at Broadway tabernacle.

Death of C. F. Crocker.
San Mateo, Cal., July 19.—C. F. Crocker, first vice-president of the Southern Pacific railroad company, who was stricken with apoplexy and paralysis at his dinner table eight days ago, died at 7:15 o'clock Saturday evening. He was 42 years old.

C. F. CROCKER.

Train Robbers in Tennessee.

Atlanta, Ga., July 19.—A bold train robbery, smacking of masked desperadoes and western daring, was reported at the police station Saturday morning. Two Pullman sleepers attached to trains Nos. 7 and 8 of the Southern railway, running between Chattanooga and Atlanta, were entered by outlaws between this city and Rome and the passengers robbed of their money. They then took the down train to Atlanta and looted every berth of its valuables, including the clothing of the inmates. When Atlanta was reached every passenger was compelled to purchase new clothing. The loss is in the thousands. There is no trace of the robbers.

Visit the Competitor's Crew.

Havana, July 19.—On Saturday two delegates from the United States consulate visited the members of the crew of the American schooner Competitor, who are imprisoned here, and several other prisoners, some of whom are native Americans, and some of whom are naturalized citizens of the United States, and after distributing a sum of money to supply their wants, assured them that their cases were receiving close attention by the American state department and Consul General Lee.

Akron Theater Burns.

Akron, Ohio, July 19.—The Academy of Music, the only theater in Akron, burned Sunday. S. T. Everest of Cleveland owned the building. His loss is $35,000, insured with Lloyds. W. G. Robinson, proprietor of the Academy, loses $5,000, partially insured. The Second National bank, occupying part of the building, was flooded.

Help for the Starving.

New York, July 19.—Another remittance of $50,000 has just been cabled by the Christian Herald fund to Bishop Thoburn's India famine relief committee, whose chief operations now embrace over 70 different stations scattered throughout the famine districts.

WORK OF THE DAY AT THE CAPITOL

QUICK ACTION ON TARIFF BILL PROMISED.

Conferees Reach Agreement—The Rate On Sugar Provided For In the Bill As It Passed the House Will Likely Be Adopted—Senator Aldrich Explains.

Washington, July 19.—The indications are that the tariff bill as agreed to by the republican conferees Saturday probably will have passed both houses of congress and be a law at the end of the present week. Delays and complications, though not anticipated, may somewhat prolong the final struggle. It is not believed that there will be any disposition on the part of the democratic members of the conference to delay the bill in full committee, but the democrats have had no meeting to determine their course of action on this point.

It is learned that there were some changes of verbiage in the sugar schedule. The provision for the ratification of reciprocity treaties by the senate was retained in the modified reciprocity clause. Among the other things agreed to were the senate rates on steel tubing and hollow billets used in the manufacture of bicycle frames. The rate on cotton bagging is 7-10 of a cent. The house rate was 12-10.

DETAILS OF THE AGREEMENT.

Showing How the Senate and House Conferees Settled the Tariff.

Washington, July 19.—When the announcement of an agreement was first made Saturday the indications were that the senate had surrendered everything in the sugar schedule to the house. No one in possession of all the facts could see how it could be otherwise when it was known that the house differential of 1/4 of a cent had been accepted and the senate provision for throwing off 1-10 of a cent on low-grade sugars receded from. "You will discover," said Senator Aldrich, in discussing the matter among his colleagues, "that the senate saves something after all, and that it is not a complete surrender on our part."

There is an increase in the duty on the highest grades of sugar, bringing the total duty on pure sugar, testing 100 degrees, up to 2 cents a pound. This increase is attained by adding to the senate rate of one-half of 1-100th of a cent a pound on sugar testing over 75 degrees, and it is claimed that the increase on the higher grades, which this change insures, will add immensely to the protection of the sugar beet industry. The refiners necessarily receive incidental benefit from the same increase, but for the process of refining they get only one-eighth, or 125-1,000th of a cent, as provided in the house bill. It is estimated that the changes in the sugar schedule will raise about $2,000,000 additional revenue.

BARON REVELSTROKE DEAD.

Edward Charles Baring, the English Financier, Passes Away.

London, July 19.—Edward Charles Baring, first Baron Revelstroke, is dead. He was born in 1828, and was created a baron in 1885. He was formerly director of the Bank of England, and was the senior partner of the firm of Baring Bros., financiers.

Will Settle Silver Question.

New York, July 19.—Chauncey M. Depew returned from Europe on Saturday. In the course of an interview his attention was called to the immense gold finds in Alaska, and he was asked if he thought it would have any bearing on the silver question. "I think it will settle it," he said. "The trouble has been, according to the silver people, that there is not enough gold to go around. If $100,000,000 new gold is put on the market the silver question will be settled. They are taking immense quantities of gold out in southern Africa, too."

Charged With the Blakesley Crime.

Cleveland, O., July 19.—Albert Boyd has been arrested on the charge of being one of the robbers of the Blakesley family April 16, at which time John Blakesley was beaten to death. It is said that Boyd, who is a wire nail worker, told his sweetheart a couple of days ago all about his connection with the affair and the young woman divulged the information to the authorities. This is the first clew to one of the most sensational robberies that ever took place in northwestern Ohio.

Cadet Montgomery Is Found.

Portland, Ore., July 19.—Russell Montgomery, a United States naval cadet who disappeared from Annapolis over a year ago, has been heard from in Alaska. He writes to his father, J. B. Montgomery, a well known capitalist of this city, that he has a claim in the Klondyke district, and is now working it successfully. Young Montgomery failed in his examinations at Annapolis, which fact so humiliated him that he left Annapolis.

She Would Be Governor.

Topeka, Kan., July 20.—Mrs. Mary E. Lease has announced that she will be a candidate for the Populist nomination for governor of Kansas next year. The constitution does not bar women from holding this office.

Honor "Mother" Bickerdike.

Topeka, Kan., July 19.—This is the eightieth birthday of "Mother" Mary Bickerdike, the famous army nurse, and throughout the state the veterans of the late war, their wives and children, met at Grand Army post halls and paid tribute to her heroic and kindly services to the union soldiers whom she nursed on the battlefields of the civil war. "Mother" Bickerdike lives at Bunker Hill, Russell county, where hundreds of veterans assembled to do honor to her sacrifices.

Forest Fires in California.

San Francisco, July 19.—Forest and field fires are doing much damage in various parts of this state. Near the town of Red Bluff about a dozen residences have been burned, cattle ranges destroyed and standing crops threatened. The loss is already over $100,000. The hills near the town of Kenwood are in flames and many farms are in danger. In the vicinity of Mount Diablo fire is laying waste the fields and the mountain houses are threatened.

Memory of Juarez Is Honored.

Mexico City, July 19.—The anniversary of the death of President Juarez took place with imposing ceremonies, participated in by President Diaz and his cabinet and many civic bodies. The Masonic order was especially conspicuous. All the prominent Masons attended at the tomb of the venerated liberal statesman in San Fernando Cemetery, within the city. The tomb was fairly covered with splendid tributes.

Potters Expect Higher Wages.

Trenton, N. J., July 19.—It has developed here that the working potters of this city had a conference last week with the manufacturing potters with a view of securing a return of the 12 1/2 per cent reduction in wages when the Wilson bill was in effect. No definite conclusions were reached, but the men feel confident that the manufacturers will return to the scale.

Funeral of Father Butler.

Rome, July 19.—The body of Rev. Father Butler, bishop-elect of Concordia, Kan., who died here on Friday last, was embalmed on Saturday and the funeral services were held Sunday.

ENGLAND IS SOOTHED BY SPANISH PRESS

SYMPATHY IS OFFERED TO MR. JOHN BULL.

Papers Criticise the Action of the American Government, and Say Europe Will Combine, Sooner or Later, To Put a Curb On Uncle Sam In His Foreign Policy.

Madrid, July 19.—The press of this city expresses sympathy with Great Britain over the Sherman incident and criticises the conduct of the American government as likely to lead, sooner or later, to energetic action on the part of the powers to check the aggressive tendency of America's new foreign policy.

London, July 19.—The Times commenting editorially on the statement made on Saturday confirming the report that an international conference on the seal controversy will be held at Washington in the autumn, says: "It would ill become us to suffer resentment at the peculiar style of American diplomacy to affect our judgment of the real questions in dispute. If the American government is now willing to meet us upon the ground proposed they will doubtless find us only too glad to act with their representatives."

A letter in the Times calls attention to the irony of the fact that all the bellicose wrath of America is devoted to the protection of a few astute English capitalists who profit hugely from government leases of the Pribyloff islands, while pelagic sealing is the only hope of American citizens living by marine industry on the Pacific slope.

MAY DEPRECIATE GOLD.

Enthusiasts Look for Startling Effects from the Discovery.

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—So enormous is the gold product of Klondyke and so small is the Klondyke as compared with the entire gold producing area of the Yukon basin that an estimate of the gold possibilities of Alaska is enough to turn the head. The product may demonetize gold. Within the last few days Seattle and San Francisco have received $1,750,000 from the Klondyke.

Klondyke's miners have about three months' work ahead before the water freezes, and it is known that the gold which is stacked up in heaps, stowed away in sacks, bottles, and tin cans, already far exceeds the millions that have already come out.

According to the collective judgment of the men just from Yukon there certainly will not be less than $15,000,000 from the new Eldorado before cold weather.

Tewfik Pasha Rebuffed.

Constantinople, July 19.—At Saturday's sitting of the peace conference Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, arrived late. He submitted to the conference a new frontier scheme which was unacceptable to the powers, and the ambassadors informed Tewfik that the conference would adjourn until he brought a written acceptance by his government of the frontier line traced by the military attaches.

Five Hurt in a Burning Car.

Cambridge, Mass., July 19.—By the burning of the fuse of an electric car Saturday night forty passengers were in great peril. A panic ensued, as the car suddenly broke into flames from underneath. Five persons, all of Cambridge, were severely burned. They are: John King, and his wife, Mrs. Margaret King, and his son, John. Mrs. Sarah J. Nickerson, Miss Annie Bailey.

Bryan Going to Mexico.

Monterey, Mexico, July 19.—Mr. W. J. Bryan has written to a friend here that he will come to Mexico this fall and spend a month visiting all the principal cities of this country. The object of his visit is to make a personal study of the condition of business affairs in a free silver country and to accumulate data on the subject, to be used in his free silver campaign in the United States.

Will Move Against Cecil Rhodes.

London, July 19.—Mr. Henry Labouchere, M. P., who was one of the members of the parliamentary commission appointed to inquire into the Transvaal raid, has given notice that he will make a motion in the House of Commons that the name of Cecil Rhodes shall be removed from the list of privy councillors.

Denounces a Silly Story.

Madrid, July 19.—Mr. Hannis Taylor, the United States Minister to Spain, who is at present in San Sebastian, was seen there to-day. Mr. Taylor says the press report that the United States Legation authorized the story of the alliance between Spain and Japan against the United States is an absolute canard.

Dr. Cornwall Acquitted.

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—Dr. Richard Cornwall of Kansas City, Mo., who, while defending his father, killed his brother, Herbert Cornwall, was acquitted Saturday. The prosecution attempted to show that the killing was premeditated, but failed to do so. No further action will be taken in the matter.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

At the Presbyterian church yesterday the pastor, Rev. E. H. Pence, spoke of "The Finder of Treasure." His text was taken from Matthew 13:44: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid in a field, the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof, goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field."

Every possible interpretation has been made of the meaning of this brief parable, but there are some things about it that are sure, namely, that there is within the reach of this man great treasure; that he must needs buy the whole field in order to secure the ground on which the treasure is hidden. The man in the case is the central figure, for the treasure is a treasure only just as some one has found it. And we do not hesitate to identify the central figures in the kingdom of heaven as Christ.

Jesus nowhere leaves us in doubt as to the genuineness of his humanity. He holds within himself the great attributes of humanity in their highest and purest expression. In him we see all that humanity possibly is capable of all that fruit of character and life which our sole possibility can possess. As a matter of fact, a human soul is not redeemed until it is so changed within and its surroundings so changed without that it may grow up to the greatest of which it is capable.

In this parable Jesus does not hesitate to suggest to us that the motive which carried him on was just as strong as the enthusiasm and excitement which a man feels when he has within his reach the possession of great wealth. The man selfishly impelled to seek a treasure is not more under the spell of a mighty feeling than is he in his life purpose to save a world.

In this parable Jesus wanted men to know how deep was his interest in men. There are obstacles at which our strongest feeling will hesitate. There were none at which Jesus stopped. We stop at giving our life. Jesus did not.

In this parable Jesus wanted to give an illustration that would come home to the meanest man on earth—the miser. Most people have felt at some time strong craving for riches. It is a tremendous passion, an overwhelming addition which kindles its fires in most men's hearts at some time. Judas who stands by his side may have been lost to many of Jesus' parables, but this one he can understand. "Just measure the strongest feeling you ever had, the mightiest motive, and think of men." Jesus says, "as fired by a feeling of love and desire for you a million times stronger than that." Here is Jesus' picture, a man seeking treasure. Need we even comment upon what that treasure is? Why, it is yourself. I believe we can explain in some measure why it was that God wanted to save us, and that so much.

Rev. R. C. Denison

At the Congregational church yesterday morning the pastor spoke on "The Victory of Faith." Something makes us all feel our superiority to the animal and material world about us. And we all have the kindred feeling that we ought to be superior to all forms of evil. Men are slow to realize that a sin is really mastering them. If once they do get the idea that something is stealing their rightful place as lords of creation and of themselves men who have any spark of manhood in them will fight to get their liberty back. It is in this struggle to free themselves from whatever enslaves them that men need faith. One great power that robs men of their rightful place is the power of the past. We have been wrong and we cannot easily forget or ignore or escape from the past. As he feels the power which his past sins and mistakes have over him many a man becomes discouraged or indifferent. He lives as he has lived. Here faith can help. It shows that God forgives. That He is not angry nor revengeful over the past. And He forgives sin by bearing it with us and for us. He comes as a father comes, to the son in disgrace, and shares the sorrow because His heart compels Him to. Christ's life and death show us what kind of a heart God has. Faith gets hold of this God who will suffer with us for our sins until they are gone; and so faith lifts the weight of past sins. When the past sins are gone we still have the new life to live. And here again is difficulty. We cannot gain for ourselves or for the world a complete new character. Our efforts are fragmentary. Here again faith speaks. It shows us the God who works with us. A man without faith is a man alone. But a man with faith is a man with God. If we have faith, then the currents of God's great strength run through us, and our imperfect efforts will be perfected in Him.

In the evening the pastor spoke, easily to Take easily to Operate pecially to the teachers who are attending the Wisconsin Summer Institute, on the "Prophecy of Education," showing how the qualities of mind and life which are found in the prophets are possible and necessary to the best teacher.

Mrs. A. G. Hayden, of Milwaukee, sang at the morning service.

Rev. A. H. Barrington.

Nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net," was the text taken by the rector at Christ church Sunday morning, and he said in part:

Man is a bundle of contradictions; he thinks he is strong, and in his strength proves his weakness; he thinks he knows how to act, but in action proves his ignorance.

His failure to realize what his Savior meant by the words, "My strength is made perfect in weakness," results in either of two courses: First, retirement; second, dependence on self.

One feeling his own weakness and seeing nothing but evil in the world, he would withdraw therefrom and pass his time in prayer and contemplation. He forgot that God is in the world and that man is his agent.

He prays to God, and does not take into account that he himself may be God's agent in answering the prayer which he offered up. Christ prayed unto the Father concerning His disciples, "not that Thou shouldst take them out of the world but that Thou shouldst keep them from evil." So today the disciples, though keeping from evil should ever be in the world, as God's active agent for all that is pure, good and true.

Man depends upon himself, his experience in the world makes him think he knows exactly what to do. The disciples by their experience might have been supposed to know when to go fishing. The humble Nazarene said: "Let down your nets for a draught." Peter replied: "Master we have fished all the night and caught nothing." There the worldly man would stop, but Peter continued: "Nevertheless at Thy word I will let down the nets." And immediately it enclosed a great multitude of fishes.

Thus we are taught, that whatever our experience or worldly knowledge we should not hesitate to obey the Master's word.

The line of duty is also made plain to us in suffering, but the Master when he said, "Nevertheless not my will, but thine be done."

We cannot see, we cannot know the purpose of God. He does what is best. Our duty is to go forward, and behold we pass through the valley of the shadow of death, only to enter into green pastures beside still waters. God is in the world, he cares for us, we are to do his will, and our safety and our comfort lies in our being able to say, "nevertheless at thy word I will do this, and so not my will but thine be done."

Rev. W. F. Irvine

Rev. W. F. IRVINE of Chicago, preached morning and evening and Miss Byington sang two solos at the morning service at the Baptist church. Mr. Irvine took for his morning text Mark 9:29. Subject: "The Church in the World, Her Mission and How She Should Perform It."

The disciples were endeavoring to cast a demon out of a boy and failed. The church is like the disciples, trying to fulfill the mission entrusted to her by the Master. To some extent the world is disappointed in the church. They are turning to other organizations. If we were more filled with the spirit of Christ, these other things would not be so much needed. Salvation is good for the other world, but it is a broader thing than that. It is a divine active principle governing and blessing men in this life also. We, the church, should have one great idea, the giving of the gospel to men.

Satan rules in this world. There is not much angel in a man. Until men have received Jesus they are not sons of God and we are to win them away from the power of sin to Christ.

The world is longing for deliverance from Satan. The church is the only hope of the world. When we realize the truth of this great mission, there will be no great need of those other institutions, no great cry of how shall we reach the masses. They will come to us. "Ye are the salt of the earth, the light of the world."

If the church were where she ought to be there would be no power on earth that could stop our progress. Christ waits to give us his spirit and we need to humble ourselves before him. The remedy is given us in this text. We need to humble ourselves in earnest prayer. Let us work just as much, and spend more time in prayer. Let us withdraw ourselves from the world and live more to carry out our great mission.

The Y. P. S. C. E. was led by Chas. Cleland, the subject was, "African Missions." It was a very interesting session.

The topic for the prayer meeting on Thursday evening will be "The Results of Right and Wrong Living." Prov. 13-6.

Festival Held.

ST PAUL'S German Lutheran church celebrated its annual mission festival at Mole's grove yesterday. Two services were held, one at 10 a. m. and the other at 2 p. m. Rev. P. Flass of Ashippun, Wis., delivered the morning sermon, and Rev. H. Mueller, of Hanover, preached in the afternoon.

Rev. Dr. O. A. Curtis.

REV. DR. O. A. CURTIS said farewell to his friends in Court Street church Sunday morning. His sermon topic was the influence of sorrow in forming the Christian character.

The sermon was one closely identified with his life among Court Street people and was received with many manifestations of feeling. The church was filled to its doors, and at the close of the service many remained for a parting word with Dr. Curtis.

DR. HALSEY IN THE PULPIT

The Well Known Pastor Preaches Again with Old-Time Vigor.

The Rev. Sabin Halsey, who gave up his pulpit in Janesville some months ago owing to shattered health, preached at the Sherman street M. E. church last evening, says The Milwaukee Sentinel. He has partially regained his health, and talked in his old-time form. "As every man hath received the gift, even so ministers the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God," was his text from Peter.

"In Peter's thought true religion," said Mr. Halsey, "meant more than a correct theory of the nature and mission of the Son of God. Service in the interest of humanity expresses his thought of religion. Open hearted, tender in his dealings with others, persistent in toil he is a model for Christians of the Nineteenth century."

"The words of the text are a practical exhortation, bearing directly on the important problem of service," he continued. "Two words furnish a key to the Apostle's thought: Gift and steward. The plea sometimes heard that 'I have no talent' is either the plea of one who loves ease or one who has been paralyzed by the power of sin. Men, endowed with such intellectual faculties, cannot evade responsibility by saying there is nothing he can do in the work of helping humanity. The apostle calls faith the gift of God, power to believe is a natural endowment of the soul. With these gifts properly cultivated and then exercised the possessors become stewards of the manifold grace of God. The woman who keeps her home and makes it a place where even the invisible angels of God delight to tarry, is serving among the working forces of the kingdom of Christ. If the best a man can do is to dig in the ditch, or carry a hod, or shore a plank, or wield a hammer, I see no reason why he should hate himself, and go through life as if he were created in vain. He who forgets self, consecrates every faculty of his being to the work he is fitted to do."

Kelly was in a red hot race

Won Second Money at Detroit Saturday-- Other Trotting Gossip.

John Kelly took part in a red hot race at Detroit Saturday, when he won second money in the 2:14 class trotting, with Sir. Valance, the Hamlin entry, won the race, seven heats being trotted. Kelly won the second and third heats in 2:12 and 2:13. Then Prius, a mare that has raced here, got a heat, and Valance covered the next three. Jimmy Hague, Ben B., and other horses that have trotted here, were also in the race.

Frank Bagosh won the 2:11 pacing purse. Giles Noyes a horse that has paced here, and driven by George West, a driver well known in Janesville, won second money. J. O. Gerrity, with Miss Finley, was unplaced. Hal Crago, Kansas, Oddity and several other well known horses were also entered. Valance, the horse that John Kelly won good money with last year, was also in this race, but was distanced in the first heat. George Starr drives him this year.

"Tom" Dunbar, who was always the cause of all the fun at the Janesville meetings, won a $1,500 purse with Tom Ogden, beating Royal Victor.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of De Witt's Little Early Rise, the famous little pill for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. O. D. Stevens.

VETERANS TO MEET
HERE NEXT MONTH

THIRTEENTH INFANTRY HOLD REUNION

Historical Sketch of a Regiment Which Although Never Engaged in a Great Battle Always Obeyed Orders and Did Its Duty—Heavy Loss by Disease Contracted in Malarial Country.

The annual reunion of the Thirteenth Wisconsin Infantry will take place at Janesville, Wednesday August 18.

The regiment was recruited from the southern counties of the state, the rendezvous being Camp Treadway, Janesville, and was mustered in Oct. 17, 1861. The colonel, Maurice Maloney, has been in the regular army fifteen years, and had served in Mexico, Florida and Oregon. Chief Justice William P. Lyon was in command of the regiment at one time. The regiment was discharged at Madison, Dec. 26, 1865. The original strength of the regiment was 970, and additions were made from time to time making the total enlistments 1,931. The loss by death was 184 and by deserters 71. The regiment left the state for Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 18, 1862, and from there started for Fort Smith, Ark., via Fort Scott, to take part in Gen. Lane's Southwestern expedition.

The Regiment's Service.

The expedition was abandoned and the regiment was ordered to Fort Donelson, and took part in the expedition against Clarksville, Tenn. The regiment was employed in scouting expeditions in Tennessee, while they were quartered at Fort Donelson. Afterward they garrisoned Fort Henry. They were employed in the pursuit of the rebel general, Forrest, driving his forces through Western Tennessee towards Corinth and returning to Fort Henry, January 1, 1863. During the month they were employed in guarding supply steamers between Fort Henry and Hamburg Landing. That summer they remained at Fort Donelson, holding the extreme right and front of the army of the Cumberland. Late in August the regiment marched to Stevenson, Ala., a depot of supplies, and occupied the post until the arrival of the eleventh and twelfth corps of the army of the Potomac. Then they joined their brigade at Nashville, and went into winter quarters at Edgefield near that city.

The Army Reorganized.

They went to Wisconsin on a veteran furlough in the following February, three-quarters of the men having reenlisted. They returned to camp in Edgefield in March, and moved to Stevenson the last of April, where Colonel Lyon was again placed in command of the post and the rail and defenses in the vicinity. The following winter, when the army was reorganized, the regiment was assigned to the First brigade of the Fourth division of the Twentieth Army corps. When the rebel general, Wheeler, threatened to destroy the Memphis & Charleston railroad in September, 1864, the regiment was ordered to Huntsville and strengthened the defenses. That fall the regiment took part in skirmishes with rebel forces under Forrest and Hord. During the summer and fall of 1864, the regiment suffered greatly from sickness, owing to the malaria of the region, and many died.

Assigned to the Fourth Corps

In March, 1865, the regiment, by order of General Thomas, was assigned to the Fourth Corps, Third brigade, Third division the brigade commanded by Brigadier General Samuel Beatty. March 23, they moved with their corps into East Tennessee, with the purpose of going into Virginia. At Jonesboro, they learned, on April 7, of the capture of Richmond and the surrender of Lee. They then returned to Nashville, and in June embarked for New Orleans, whence they were sent to Indianola, Tex., reaching that place July 14. They afterwards moved to Green Lake and on September 11, set out for San Antonio, 145 miles distant, encamping seven miles from that place near the close of the month.

A Memorable March.

The hardships endured in the march from Indianola to Green Lake through the "buffalo wallows" were great.

Were you to read the catalogue of every piano manufacturer in the United States you would find that about all claim to make the finest piano, the cheapest often making the greatest claims and having the most gilt upon the covers of their catalogues. VETERANS TO MEET HERE.

There was great dissatisfaction at the palpable neglect and mismanagement in supplying the command with rations. Many who had seen four years of active service died. At the commencement of the march for San Antonio the thermometer stood at 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Some of the men fell by the roadside, and many on reaching their destination sought the hospital, being completely broken down. At San Antonio they were mustered out of the service November 24.

Bears an Honorable Record.

Although the Thirteenth regiment was not engaged in any severe battle, it bears an honorable record for the performance of arduous duties; holding important positions, guarding trains, watching the movement of the enemy and contributing in various ways by vigilance and faithfulness to the success of important battles. Adj. Gen. Gaylord says: "From their endless, and apparently aimless marches on the Western frontier down to their latest record, they uniformly performed their whole duty as ordered by superior officers. The record of men occupying such positions as they have been called upon to sustain, presents little to dazzle the imagination, but the tireless vigilance which relaxes not, day after day and week after week although lacking the excitement which accompanies the movements of armies, cannot fail to command our admiration and respect for the Thirteenth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry."

John T. Fish, the well known lawyer, was captain of Co. C at the time the regiment was ordered out. Willis P. Clarke of Milton, now secretary of the regimental association, was first lieutenant of Co. K. The three members of the regiment who were killed in action were Corporal G. W. Hulce of Co. B, and J. H. Carpenter and J. R. Merreness of Co. C, Sylvester Noyes of Co. K and R. B. Valentine of Co. A, died of wounds received. The deaths by disease numbered 179.

Restful Nights, Days Free from Torture. Await the rheumatic sufferer who resorts to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. That this benignant cordial and purgative is a far more reliable remedy than colic and other poisons used to expel the rheumatic virus from the blood, is a fact that experience has satisfactorily demonstrated. It also enjoys the advantage of being—unlike them—perfectly safe. With many persons a certain predisposition to rheumatism exists, which renders them liable to attacks after exposure in wet weather, to currents of air, changes of temperature, or to cold when the body is hot. Such persons should take a wine glass or two of the Bitters as soon as possible after incurring risk from the above causes, as this superb protective remedy neutralizes the harmful influence. For the functional derangements which accompany rheumatism, such as colic, spasms in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, imperfect digestion, etc., the Bitters is also a most useful remedy. It is only necessary in obstinate cases to use it with persistency.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth Century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a soft and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum, or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even as a baby powder.

ROCK COUNTY CREAMERIES.

The creamery business has done great things for Rock county during the last two years. It has kept a steady stream of money flowing in from the east during the hardest times known in twenty-five years. It has improved farms, paid off mortgages, and slowly but surely it is reorganizing agricultural methods in this part of the state.

Butter-making in the old days was at best a laborious, uncertain affair. Inevitable variations in quality had their effect on prices, and along with egg-selling the butter-making was left as woman's share of the farm work—too unimportant to be worth attention from the "men folks."

All this has been superseded by a system that makes the butter products the most valuable on the farm. Accuracy in making and severity in testing has brought about a uniformity of product that makes Wisconsin butter a standard for other states.

The conditions of farm life have been changed greatly by this new industry. The farmer has become a manufacturer, less dependent on the chances of rain and sun, less at the mercy of army worm and Colorado beetle. His cash income has been doubled, his profits made more sure.

On the other hand the creamery is a hard master; it tolerates no shirking, for only by maintaining a high standard of efficiency can the best paying results be attained. It makes the keeping of good stock profitable, and makes the steady improvement of the farm consistent with the obtaining of every possible dollar's worth of revenue, is emphatically a good thing and its increasing importance is an encouraging sign of the times and furnishes incentive to further effective work in other agricultural branches through combined intellectual effort, and is thereby a guarantee of future and increased agricultural prosperity.

Hardly a word has been said in Wisconsin for free silver since last November. The idea that prosperity could not be had without a debased currency and the consequent high prices was dropped very suddenly by the papers that made most noise about it up to Nov. 6.

If Julian Hawthorne's account of "The Horrors of the Plague in India," in the current Cosmopolitan Magazine, isn't any nearer correct than his account of events in last year's campaign was, it will hardly do to bank upon.

The preacher who abused the governor of Virginia for attending a ten cent variety show didn't say that the offense would have been lessened had the price of admission been higher, but he left as to be inferred.

The associated bank statement continues to indicate a growing business with ample means. Except the coal strike there is hardly a feature of the business outlook that is not encouraging.

The silver mine owners have probably noticed that the free silver line is getting a little wobbly in spots. Perhaps the allowance of some of the operators has been cut off.

The declaration is made by Bradstreet that Europe will want one hundred million bushels more wheat than last year.

Mr. Bryan's pursuit of the presidency will do the country no harm, so long as there is no chance of his overtaking it.

MAY GET DRUGGISTS TO MEET WITH US

STATE PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE.

Bower City May Be Selected as the Place for the 1898 Convention if Proper Steps Are Taken—Five Days of Work Have Been Laid Out.

Janesville may get the 1898 convention of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical Association.

That means 400 to 600 of the liveliest business men in the state.

It means hot times for five days. Three days the session usually lasts, but if Janesville gets it the meeting will be made a five day affair and crowded full of business and pleasure.

The annual meeting for 1897 will be held in Green Bay August 10, 11 and 12, and August 12 the place of the 1898 meeting will be chosen. Oconto and several other cities in the northern part of the state are actively in the field, but Janesville has by far the strongest backing among the druggists of the state.

The 1898 meeting will include an exhibition of drug stock and druggists' sundries; and competitions with prizes aggregating $1,000 offered by wholesale druggists. The last day of the meeting there is always a parade that is worth going miles to see. One year it was a Mother Hubbard parade and people still talk about it.

At the Green Bay meeting all the people will appear with the new badge of the association, a cut of which is here given.

Convivality in the Chin Hills.

Among the natives of the Chin Hill district of Rangoon no pretext for a feast is allowed to pass unused, whether it be a birth, a death, a marriage, a sacrifice, the payment of a debt, the making of an agreement, the slaughter of an enemy, the shooting of a deer; and a feast implies a drinking bout, sometimes of many days' duration. They drink a liquid named zu, which is made from rice, millet, or Indian corn. It is described as a most refreshing drink after a hot march, and is said to pull one together more quickly than any other stimulant in times of great fatigue. Its effects do not appear to be very deleterious, for the Chin usually lives to a good age, though an habitual drunkard from childhood. Men, women, and even babies, at their mothers' breasts all drink; and a state of intoxication is considered as creditable as it is pleasant. No event is complete without liquor, and nothing is an offense when committed under the influence of liquor. Not to ply a visitor with liquor is considered the height of discourtesy, and the warmth of a man's reception is gauged by the number of pots of liquor broached for him. Consequently, as may be imagined, a feast is not a very edifying spectacle. On the arrival of the guests, pigs and oxen are slaughtered, and their flesh hacked off and boiled. During this process drinking begins. The guests sit in long rows, with their liquor pots between their knees, sucking hard at the tube, and talking very little. When the food is ready, all fall to, still silently, until, hunger satisfied, they revert to drink. Then their spirits begin to rise, gongs and horns are produced, and dancing and singing begin. As the night wears on the revellers become hopelessly drunk; some sit moodily in corners, some lie with their faces in the dirt, and others quarrel and fight with fists.

Greece Fills Up Its Army Ranks.

Athens, July 19.—The government has summoned to the colors those members of the reserve who were exempted in the first two classes who are now under arms. It has also summoned the class who were destined under ordinary circumstances to join the colors in October. The measure is considered necessary to fill the ranks of the army.

Work of Wreckers.

Fairbury, Ill., July 19.—A disaster planned by train wreckers was narrowly averted three miles east of this city Saturday night. The wreckers had placed rails and ties on the track and the regular east-bound passenger train ran into the obstruction. The engine was disabled in spite of the engineer noticing the obstruction in time to avoid a sudden stop. No one was injured.

INDIAN FORD STORE LOOTED BY THIEVES

ROBBERS FILL A BAG WITH SWAG SUNDAY.

Knives, Razors, Jewelry and Shoes Are Taken, and the Loss Will Amount to Quite a Sum—Reward Offered by George Lackner, Owner of the Stolen Goods.

Burglars raided the store of George Lackner at Indian Ford early Sunday morning, and stole:

Sixty dollars worth of pocket knives of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Company's make.

Fifteen razors of various makes.

Fifty dollars worth of jewelry, consisting mostly of plain, chased, and set finger rings and scarf pins.

Six pairs of men's shoes, one pair size 10, two pairs size 9, and three pairs size 8.

The robbers forced an entrance some time during the early hours Sunday morning, it is thought, and the crime was discovered when Mr. Lackner went to the store. The drawers in the counters and desk had been forced, and the store thoroughly ransacked. A bag containing lime was emptied, and the plunder put in it. It is also thought that the thieves took a quantity of clothing although Mr. Lackner is not certain of it.

When the robbery was discovered, Officer Hogan was notified by telephone, and later Mr. Lackner drove to Janesville and notified Sheriff Acheson. The sheriff has sent out postal cards offering $20 reward for the arrest of the thieves, but no trace of the robbers has yet been found.

That Common Trouble, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and vigorously digests, it does not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

NO MORE SHELLS CAN BE SOLD

Bottom Falls Out of the Market.

AGENT FINLEY GETS ORDERS FROM NEW YORK.

What Will Be Done With the Present Supply Is a Question That He Cannot Answer—Knows of No Reason For the Order, But a Pearl Button Firm Tells Beloit Men That the Shells of the Rock River Bivalves are Not Worth Ten Cents a Carload.

The bottom has fallen out of the clam shell business. What will be done with the big stock now on hand?

Will any more be bought? You tell. Receiving Agent Finley doesn't know.

Mr. Finley said this morning that he had received notice not to buy any more shells, and what will be done with the piles that are on hand is not known to Mr. Finley.

The announcement came as a great surprise to the clam fishers. Tons and tons of the shells are now ready for delivery, and the fishers are still fishing. No "receiving day" is in sight, however, and clam shells are a drug on the market. Mr. Finley does not know why his principals have decided not to buy any more shells, but the following article from the Beloit Daily News, may throw more light on the matter. The News says:

Are Shells Worthless?

An officer of one of the largest button factories in the United States declares that the clam shells which are being taken from Rock River and sold to an agent for a New York firm are worthless for making buttons. Samples were sent to the Boepple Button company at Muscatine, Ia., and the treasurer of the company said they could not be made into buttons.

F. Kilmer of Beloit, became interested in the shell industry which suddenly sprang up at Janesville and all along the Rock river. It occurred to him, says the News, that if there was such a good thing in the clam shells found in the Rock it might be made profitable for Beloit. He thought a factory might be opened here. So he procured some samples of the shells which are being dug in the river and sent them to the Boepple Button company, at Muscatine, Ia., with a letter asking whether a button factory might not be established here by that company.

Shells Are No Good.

Mr. Kilmer received the following reply:

F. Kilmer, Esq., Beloit, Wis., Dear Sir: Yours of the 8th is received also your samples of shells. We are disappointed in your samples as they cannot be used for making buttons. The river is full of just this kind of shells here but we do not use them in our business. If this is what other parties are buying and shipping in Janesville they will surely get left in the long run. Now if there is any other kind you have there that you would like to send us, we would be pleased to receive them and we also wish to thank you for your kindness in the matter. Very truly,
BOEPPLE BUTTON CO.

The work of filling in this trestle is the largest job of this kind that the road has taken up in this part of the state this season, and it will require several weeks' time to finish the work. Gravel is being hauled in trainloads from the several pits in the vicinity of this city.

NAME NO RECEIVER IN M'LEAN MATTER

JUDGE BENNETT RULES ON TWO CASES

Both Petitions Are Dismissed and the Mortgage Holders, George C. McLean and I. F. Connors Score a Point—Bertness Insolvency Case—Other Court Business.

George C. McLean and I. F. Connors, holders of the mortgages on J. B. McLean's stock, scored a victory in the circuit court this morning when Judge John R. Bennett held that no receiver should be appointed to take charge of the West Milwaukee street liquor establishment.

The matter was heard this morning on the petition of I. W. Bernheim, Uri, and William DuMuth & Gould, who claim that there is a goodly sum due them. George C. McLean and I. F. Connors, holders of the mortgages, and John W. Hogan appeared this morning, and were sworn on the part of the petitioners. After all testimony was in, the court decided not to appoint a receiver, and the costs in each action were fixed at ten dollars. Dunwiddie & Wheeler and Smith & Pierce appeared in behalf of the petitioners, while Hon. John Winans represented I. F. Connors and George McLean. Attorney Charles C. Russell appeared for J. B. McLean.

An Insolvency Case

Twenty well known farmers stepped from the Orfordville train this morning, and at once proceeded to the court house where Attorneys Smith and Pierce, in their behalf, appeared before Judge Bennett to show why H. I. Bertness should not be discharged from his debts. The defendant, who was represented by E. D. McGowan, is a well known farmer. He resided on one of the best conducted farms in the county situated one mile from Orfordville. Of late, it is claimed, Mr. Bertness has borrowed different sums of money ranging from $100 up, and giving, as security, his notes.

Collections are alleged to have been slow, and now that he has petitioned the court for a discharge as insolvent, the creditors propose to fight the case. The court ordered that the case should be tried before a jury at the next regular term of court.

In the case of J. D. Holmes vs. George N. Van Etta et al., the court ordered judgment in the sum of $132.21 damages, $59.84 costs, and $10 receiver's fees.

In the case of S. S. Chase vs. George N. Van Etta et al., judgment was rendered, fixing the damage at $176.65, costs $64.79 and $10 receiver's fees.

THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

Mrs. A. C. Resseguie.

Mrs. A. C. Resseguie, one of the early settlers of Rock county, died at her home on Benton avenue, at 10 o'clock Saturday evening, aged eighty-one years. For several months past Mrs. Resseguie had been a constant sufferer, and death came as a relief from pain.

The Rock County History gives the following facts concerning Mrs. Resseguie's life:

Miss Jerusha Norton was born in the town of Benton, near Pan Yan, New York, June 10, 1816. She was the daughter of William and Amy Norton, early settlers of Benton.

In 1847 her parents came to Wisconsin, and located near Belleville, in Green county, where they resided until called from this world by death. On the 22 of February, 1839, she was married to Mr. Resseguie and for nearly sixty years she shared his joys and sorrows.

Four children were the result of this union, three of whom are living, Rufus E. Resseguie, Charles F. Resseguie, of Chicago, (superintendent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad system, and Miss Jessie Florence Resseguie, of this city.

In 1843 Mrs. Resseguie, with her husband, removed to Perry, Wyoming county, New York, where they remained on the farm until 1846. On May 1st, 1846, they came to Clinton, Rock county, where they purchased land and developed a beautiful home.

In the spring of 1856, Mr. Resseguie having been elected clerk of the court, they came to Janesville to reside. In 1863 they returned to the farm, but the following year sold out and again returned to Janesville that they might secure better advantages of education for their children. In the same year they purchased the present home on Benton avenue, which they have occupied for over forty years.

Beside the children, Mrs. Resseguie is survived by her aged husband, who is now eighty-eight years of age, and totally blind.

The funeral will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ODD FELLOWS MEET IN THE BOWER CITY

PLANS ARE MADE FOR A BIG GATHERING.

Rock River Encampment To Celebrate Its Fiftieth Anniversary—Organize a Canton of Patriarchs Militant, With Prospect of Securing the State Cantonment At the Same Time.

The Odd Fellows are planning on two big meetings to be held in this city that will bring hundreds of strangers to Janesville.

In December the local lodge of Rock River Encampment No. 3, I. O. O. F. will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary.

In August a grand state Cantonment may be held in connection with the forming of a local Canton, Patriarchs Militant.

When the Encampment celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the organization three hundred strangers are expected from all parts of the Badger state who will come at the invitation of the local lodge. The celebration will last all day.

In December, 1847, Rock River Encampment No. 3, was formed in this city and from that time until the present it has grown in strength and membership until today it is considered the third oldest, while with its membership roll of over a hundred, it ranks as the largest, in the state.

Form Militant Order.

Another important move is the formation of a Canton Patriarchs Militant. For several weeks and months past the formation of such a lodge has been agitated among the Odd Fellows, and now organization is assured.

Charles Schwartz, who is one of the prime movers in the enterprise, has the signatures of enough men to guarantee its formation, and the lodge will meet next month to perfect all arrangements and for the election of officers.

James A. Fathers, who has interested himself in the matter, said this morning that a grand state Cantonment was likely to be held in this city when the local lodge was formed and that in such case delegates would arrive from all camps and lodges in the state. That outside camps favor the plan is shown from the fact that letters are daily arriving favoring the idea of a state meeting and they all agree that no better spot could be selected than the Bower City.

Committees will be appointed to plan the fiftieth anniversary celebration, at a meeting to be held soon.

My Lady's Strange Girdle

By LUCY CLEVELAND.

[Copyright, 1897, by the Author.]

"What do you think is in it?" I asked the question again of my companion as we paced up and down the deck of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer.

We were plowing our way through the bay of Biscay. Our destination was Calcutta via the Suez canal. The first stop was Gibraltar, and the captain had assured us at luncheon that we should hear the bulldog menace of its sunset gun that night. The steamer was to stop at the rock 24 hours to coal. Thereupon the ladies had indulged in frantic hopes and plans of ascending the rock of Gibraltar on appropriate donkeys, and of seeing possibly a famous afternoon hour when the "thin red line" of England, made up of men who are variously scared from wars in the Sudan, Zululand, the Crimea, and India, parade on the Alameda, regiments who name Bunker Hill and the New York Battery as two western objective points of contest.

The steamer's passengers were interesting, for each member of our company was abroad with a special intent, not the usual aimless loitering, as along Atlantic liners. Here were English officers destined for Egypt, fathers of families who were raising ostriches on farms in South Australia, traders from upper Egypt who had unloaded their wares in London and were now returning via Alexandria to Siout on the Nile; a silent German fellow, a professor, whom none of us could make out, but who was interesting, who wore a scientific frown and kept below three-quarters of the time; myself, six feet of George Washington's acres; tall and distinguished looking East Indians, who had been at Chicago's "White City" in the year of the great exhibition, and a sprinkling of Turks from whom the wiser among us fled, remembering the immortal flea.

"She's one of the prettiest women I ever saw," I said to my companion, an English military officer, as we turned for the twentieth time in our pace along the deck. "How did she register?"

"Lady Jemappes."

"Humph! A French name. But she's English—English coloring, complexion like a peach and the brilliant, high bred air of your great ladies. Traveling alone with a maid, is she not?"

"Yes, and joins the old man at Malta, they say."

"Indeed!" I laughed and lifted my eyebrows. "But her gowns are creations, her manners charming, her beauty very unusual. You've noticed that belt she wears, no matter what the gown. She is a silent woman. I have started any number of topics from Nansen and the north pole to the Derby and the Roentgen rays. She smiles sweetly, but seems to avoid conversation."

We raised our hats.

"Silence in a woman is the great discovery awaiting the twentieth century." The officer smiled and relit his pipe. "I doubt if they'll get it."

"Come; that's unfair," I said, joining, however, in the laugh.

"Now, here's this woman you're talking of," the English officer resumed. "I've seen her often in animated confabs with the Turks."

"By Jove! I wonder if she avoids me because I always inevitably keep my eyes on that strange girdle she wears. There's beginning to be a little breath about it on board. Everybody is talking about it. The captain thinks it's mysterious too. There is no fashion at present among the fair sex of knotting a belt or girdle around the waist. It must be 2½ yards long. I'm good at staccato measurements. The woman has a fashion of keeping her hand on it whether she's talking or walking. I've watched her at table. She twists the belt in her lap and is perpetually staring away from her plate at it. There's one portion of it, I've noticed, that won't twist. It lies stiff and strong, an immovable outline. It's a queer outline. I can't tell you why, but it's queer. I don't like it. The other day the girdle came unfastened and fell to the deck as the woman steeled herself in the ship's lurch in that big blow off the Channel islands. Lady Jemappes was for the moment whiter than the foam tipped wave off there. I jumped forward and restored it to her. There's something inside it. I could feel that the moment it was in my hands. As I gave it to her ladyship she gave me a look which I can't forget. Perhaps it contains her will or titles to an estate or Bank of England notes or love letters. There's something inside it. I could feel that."

"Hold up, Dillons. You are getting as curious as a woman. But I'll find out the secret, I bet you. How much shall I put up on it?" The officer raised his fieldglass and swept the sea where the winter sun hung low for a glimpse of the dark lion couchant—impregnable Gibraltar.

"Look out, man; she'll hear you. There she comes!" Accompanied by her maid, who carried the wraps and rugs, steamer chair, etc., a beautiful woman came slowly forward with the graceful, high bred carriage of one long accustomed to contact with the world's best. We raised our hats. Caithness and I, and went forward to proffer our assistance.

"Thank you," a gentle, beautifully modulated voice answered, and my Lady Jemappes lifted upon us the gaze of the two great, deep blue eyes, blue as that sea of azure glory out there. "I will sit here for a little while. I hear that we shall sight Gibraltar in an hour."

"Does your ladyship purpose joining the excursionists up the rock?" I began to feel a throb around my heart as the blue eyes dwelt upon me. Caithness had warned me yesterday that I was in for it.

"No, I think not," she answered quietly. "I have done that several times."

"Oh, ho!" I said to myself. "What does that mean?" And then aloud: "I wonder if the old lady with the wig will attempt it. I hear she is one of the most ardent in the plan."

We all laughed. Unconsciously again my eyes traveled toward that mysterious belt. It was gone.

A shudder went through the woman, whose eyes followed my own. A spot of color burned on her beautiful face, telegraphing to lip and eye her startled pulses. I saw her jaw tremble, and the hand that grasped now the arm of the steamer chair shook with some great emotion. She turned to her maid. One glance was enough. I was more than ever convinced that the belt was of some tremendous importance in the woman's destiny.

"You will bring me my girdle," she said, biting her under lip nervously and avoiding my eyes. The maid disappeared. "Just fancy," Lady Jemappes went on, toying with the heavy gold chain bracelet on her fair little wrist, "fancy coming on deck without one's accouterments."

Her eyes again met mine. Anxiety and terror strove in those beautiful eyes with the dawn of divine feeling. I held those eyes a moment. But the maid appeared up the companionway, in her hand the belt. The peeress could not speak.

It was a long girdle, made of some dress material stuff, I should say. I can't describe these things as a woman does, with all the adjectives two hands high. The belt was lined with pale blue velvet. It was about a quarter of an inch thick. She knotted it around her slim waist. But, as she had never done before, she took a small key from her pocket and fitted it into a little gold lock that clasped the belt together. And I heard the lock snap. She restored the key to her pocketbook. Then, with the old, graceful breeding and composure, she drew our attention to the sunset light on a distant sail at the entrance to the bay that rounds into Gibraltar.

"We shall spend Christmas on the Mediterranean, my lady," said Caithness, "and the captain has promised us an English plum pudding, etc., and a dance afterward on deck if the weather be favorable. The band we're taking to Egypt is tolerably good. I have collected some dancing cards. May I have the honor of the first two waltzes, my lady? It is asking a great deal, but England is forever impudent as regards her own interests." He laughed and showed us the pretty dancing cards he had made, with Britannia, of course, lionized through the world (in black ink).

"That's my plan," said Caithness to me an hour later, when my lady had gone below. "As my arm encircles her gentle waist 'On the Beautiful Blue Danube,' I can tell from the feel of the belt (she'll be sure to wear it) what's in it, I bet."

"Better still, tap the maid."

"Doesn't know any more than we, I hear."

"Did you see the woman stop and speak to the Turkish chap for full ten minutes as she left us? I have never seen her so animated. Their eyes met more than once. And she glanced at her girdle."

"Tap the Turk."

"In vain. Wasn't it Carlyle who called him 'the unspeakable Turk?'" Caithness laughed. "His silent chess play has got Europe in a fix. That's the reason I'm going to Egypt."

"There comes my lady again! Restless creature today, for some unexplained reason. I believe she retires below to read the love letters in that belt. There comes the silent German professor! Why do you suppose he's always in his state-room? He is seldom in the saloon. He registered 'Dr. Schmalenstopfer,' I began."

"Hold up!" laughs Caithness. "The name would knock you down. But if you sneeze you'll get it. The captain's cabin boy says he has in his large state-room a huge apparatus."

"By Jove! I have it! Sure as you're born, it's a cathode ray photo apparatus."

"I wouldn't wonder," says Caithness, "but what is he after with X rays? Where is the man going? Do you know?"

"Yes; Alexandria first, I heard him say; later, Constantinople."

"Hello!" laughs Caithness again. "It would be a good joke to play the Crookes tubes on the sultan and get the shadowgraph of his inner meaning for Armenia and Crete. Don't laugh so. It will come to that—this stupendous discovery of Roentgen's. We shall get the psychic man presently."

"God forbid! The divine right of privacy is no more then."

"No," laughs Caithness and turns to the professor. "We hear, doctor, that you are spending these hours when the most of us loiter and smoke and flirt on deck in the depths of scientific analyses. You are interested in the Roentgen rays?" goes on sly Caithness, offering a cigar.

"Yes, gentlemen," answered Schmalenstopfer, with strong foreign accent. "It is the marvelous already. I have seen the inside of many things."

Lady Jemappes' hand that was leaning on the rail as she stood and gazed out eagerly over the ocean closed tightly upon the long girdle. A sudden idea came to me. I would get that belt and subject it to the X rays. Get that belt? I laughed to myself. I might as well try to photograph the depth of the sea. "You go to Egypt, doctor?" says Caithness again.

"Yes, gentlemen. Through English influence I have secured a fine post in the Egyptian army. I hope to accompany it on its projected campaign for the relief of Kassala. I have been much in Egypt and have had an audience with the khedive."

What induced me to lift my eyes upon the Lady Jemappes? Those beautiful eyes had sought my own with the beseeching, hungry, doglike pain of a wounded animal. And the man's soul

"We shall have a good twenty-four hours in Gibraltar, my lady."

within me stormed upward for her beautiful sake alone. But Schmalenstopfer went on, adjusting his glasses:

"I have interested myself so much in this marvelous discovery of the water-land that I have managed to bring my cathode ray photo apparatus with me into Egypt."

"I should like to see you play it on the dervishes," says Caithness.

We all laughed. Lady Jemappes did not speak. The restless, round spark of red was moving in her cheek.

But a great moment was approaching—the entrance to the strait of Gibraltar. The passengers were coming up on deck, and a commotion of questions and exclamations put a stop to X rays. The sea was a burnished amethystine violet, a palpitating shimmer and shade like the sheen on a pigeon's throat. The sky was a poem in its chromatic ascensions of sunset. The low, dark line off there nine miles beyond was the mysterious line of Africa's centuries of silence, the land of the great past and the greater possible. And suddenly from out the ocean, above the throb and obeisance of waters at its feet, rises and rises—a shadow is it, in gigantic gloom of death—the shadow that will fall upon him who menaces its might—the rock of ages, Britain's peaked cap that crowns her in the face of four continents whose shipping she surveys from her impregnable outpost—Gibraltar!

The word burst from every one's lips. I could not speak, but a thrill of no mean pride surged through my soul as I felt myself a man of that nation who had climbed a mightier rock that is eyrie for the eagle, the rock of impregnable freedom, from whose gigantic shadow Britain has twice withdrawn with her lion, wiser, to her own zoo to restudy the habits of western eagles.

The dying sunset took all Gibraltar's citadel. The stern stone was suffused with crimson. The sails of the world's shipping at the entrance to the strait caught the pink dazzle of light. The glow burned upon the faces of the passengers. I turned and saw Lady Jemappes standing silent and alone, upon her face a throb of mingled sorrow and yearning, a womanhood on her lips that stirred all the man's pulses within me, but a something within her eyes that made my veins crawl. The sun's red took the strange girdle. A distinct but yet unintelligible hieroglyph was beginning to write itself on my brain. Were those love letters in her belt? No. I believed it was her will and testament. She was vastly wealthy, one could see. Did I believe it was her will, etc.?

"We shall have a good 24 hours in Gibraltar, my lady," I said, drawing nearer the beautiful figure. "How do you propose spending it? If I might have the pleasure of showing you about a little?"

The woman turned very pale. It was a strange pallor seen under the flash of the sinking sun.

"I want to see the rock galleries and their guns," she said quickly, not raising her eyes. "There will be a grand salute given tomorrow, they tell me. The German emperor's yacht will be off Gibraltar."

"Oh, ho!" thought I. "What are the rock galleries to you, you mysterious witching womanhood? Do you contemplate suicide?"

But for the moment conversation and soliloquies shattered in the sunset, for the mouth of Gibraltar spoke.

Across to Africa the thunderous challenge rolled. The gun fire from the lion's throat bellowed its belief in one lady alone—Britannia. Its white breath curled in clouds around the mount, an incense to Victoria by the grace of God, I suppose, or something else.

I turned to my beautiful lady. Jove! How those eyes took my breath! Those eyes were misted with tears.

Worse and worse. What did it mean? "The devil! I'll risk it," I said to myself. Then aloud, "Lord Jemappes is listening to Britain's gunfire at Malta, my lady."

Again that ghastly pallor creeping down and across her face. Was it psychic, or was it certain? The pallor was creeping on to the girdle, and—I'm no fool, you know—did that girdle move?

I thought I would move away. And yet I was chained to the spot by her strange and overwhelming beauty.

"Yes, Lord Jemappes," she said. "How glorious that last rim flash of sun! There, it is gone! I am chilly. I think I must go below."

It drives the dirt out without injury to the clothes. It washes equally well the coarsest, dirtiest woollens and the finest, most delicate linens and laces. Preserve your clothes and your strength by using Santa Claus Soap.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

DOES NOT PROVE RACE.

It is a Distinction of Secondary Ethnological Importance.

Language, like religion, is a distinction of quite secondary ethnological importance, says the Monist. After an individual has remained a long time in a country he usually learns the language and its customs. And yet the Italian colony in France is made up chiefly of immigrants more or less transient who scarcely ever learn to speak the language of the country they inhabit. But the Italian laborers are contented with very low wages. They therefore compete with French laborers and thus tend to lower their wages. But in Austria, where there are, according to the last census, about 46,000 Italians, almost all laborers, the wages of the Austrian laborers are no higher than those of the Italian; hence between the two there arise no serious competition. There is, however, the same difference of language. In France the union of native laborers against the Italian is not on account of any antagonism of race, but solely an economic phenomenon. The same thing does not happen in Austria because there is no antagonism.

In France the Italian language has become almost a mark of distinction of the laborers accepting a low wage. "In India," says Ibbetson, "similarity of food is employed as an exterior sign of community of blood." Now, what would be said of an ethnographic classification of Indian races based upon eating? Language is no better, for it is only an external characteristic of no intellectual or physiological importance. If it were taken as the principal distinction of the various races it would have to be admitted that the people who speak the modern Romance languages are not Latin—but that would be absurd. Frederick Muller, taking language as the distinguishing feature of human races, is not able in his ethnography to avoid a classification entirely empirical. He forgets that an inferior people may learn a language from one race to another. "There is no proof," says Huxley, "for asserting the incapacity of a race to substitute another language for its own. Physical, moral and mental peculiarities are transmitted with blood and not with language. In the United States the negroes have spoken English for generations."

Interesting Facts About Gold.

Gold is so very tenacious that a piece of it drawn into wire one-twentieth of an inch in diameter will sustain a weight of 500 pounds without breaking. Its malleability is so great that a single grain may be divided into 2,000,000 parts, and a cubic inch into 9,523,809,523 parts, each of which may be distinctly seen by the naked eye. A grain and a half of gold may be beaten into leaves of one inch square, which if intersected by parallel lines drawn at right angles to each other, and distant only one-hundredth part of an inch, will produce 25,000,000 little squares, each of which may be distinctly seen without the aid of a glass. The surface of any given quantity of gold, according to the best authorities, may be extended by the hammer 310,814 times. The thickness of the metal thus extended appears to be no more than the 566,020th part of an inch. Eight ounces of this wonderful metal would gild a silver wire of sufficient length to extend entirely around the globe.

The Oldest Book in the World.

The oldest book in the world to which a positive date can be assigned is an assortment of proverbs somewhat after the proverb collected by Solomon. The work is accredited to Ptolemy, an Egyptian king, and Egyptologists assign to it an antiquity of at least 3000 years. B. C. Abraham was called to leave his home in Ur of the Chaldees, 1921 B. C., so that his volume was written 1,100 years before the beginning of Jewish history. The deluge is placed by most chronologists at B. C. 2348, so the book, if its dating is correct, must have been written before the flood. Methuselah was born B. C. 3217, so that these proverbs were collected when the oldest man on record was a lively young fellow of 300 years. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Our School Books.

The great fuss made by the G. A. R. over school histories will accomplish much good if sectional bitterness is avoided. As the matter stands now, the publishers are entirely to blame. There are firms in the school-book publishing business who employ a man in each state to write the history of that state, and he is expected to glorify things within its borders. He is generally a partisan. Whatever of prejudice he may have against national institutions is eliminated, but a great deal of unhistoric expertise is jammed through the completed work.

How did it happen that the old-fashioned, laborious way of washing was ever given to woman as her particular work? It's an imposition on her. She ought to have had only the easiest things to do—and men, strong, healthy men, ought to have taken up this washing business. Now, here is a suggestion. In those families that still stick to soap and make their washing needlessly hard and unpleasant, let the men do that work. They're better fitted for it. In the families that use Pearline (use without soap) and make washing easy, let the women do it. They won't mind it.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.

A Record Breaking Wash Goods Sale...

All the season we have been telling you that Wash Goods were never cheaper, and it was a fact, for we made some very fortunate purchases, and were able to name some astonishingly low prices. Now prices have gone still lower, for mill agents and jobbers have been offering their remaining stock at half and third early season prices: As is usual when there is a good thing to be had, we got in on it; and today offer several remarkable Wash Goods. If you do not pay more than five cents a yard it will buy a dainty fabric which ordinarily retails at ten cents, and all other prices will obtain equally desirable values.

FIRST is twenty-five pieces "Lotus Lawns," all white grounds, with neat figures, (these are not short lengths, nor end of stock, but are fresh new goods in full pieces) all you want of them, per yard--3 cents.

SECOND--Dimities in stripes, figures, scroll patterns, &c; all the desirable colorings; fifty pieces to select from. All on the counters, per yard--5 cents.

THIRD--150 pieces of the season's choicest wash fabrics, that have been retailed at 12½ and 15c. Organdies and dimities, light and dark grounds; many that you have not seen before this season. They are all, per yard--7½ cents.

Don't Forget the Shirt Waists....

The great sale is still going on, and we are today showing more new Shirt Waists than you have seen in other stores at any time this season. The pick of the line at the town talk prices! 39 & 59c
